

Undergraduate Studies

Research Period of 2 to 4 weeks

Title
2006	Handedness in the Barbary macaque
2007	Does allogrooming occur only on parts of the body than cannot be reached by autogrooming?
2008	Investigation into handedness in Barbary macaques
2009	The Relationship between Observed Social Behaviour and Faecal Glucocorticoid levels in Female Barbary macaques A study into the Resting Behaviours of Barbary macaques Investigating Play Group Size and Time Spent Playing within the Groups of Barbary macaques
2010	Grooming between Barbary macaques out of, and during, mating season Assessing the Strength of Handedness in Barbary macaques
2011	Investigating the presence of handedness in Barbary macaques Grooming in Barbary macaques: Does the length of a bout of allo-grooming affect self-grooming behaviour after the bout? An Investigation into the Activity Budgeting differences between Male and Female Barbary macaques outside the mating season Do Infants and Juveniles Spend more time with Adult Males or Adult Females in Semi-free Ranging Groups of Barbary macaques at Trentham Monkey Forest? How do Activity Budgets differ between Male and Female Semi-captive Barbary macaques during the Mating Season? How does the mating season affect Grooming Behaviour in Barbary macaques? Conflict Management in Barbary macaques
2012	Post-conflict Behaviour of Barbary macaques The effect of Stress and Group Composition on the Occurrence of Male-infant Interactions in Barbary macaque social groups Do infant Barbary macaques (Macaca sylvanus) benefit from male-infant dyadic interactions Do Infant Barbary macaques (Macaca sylvanus) benefit from male caretaking in dyadic interactions?

	The Adaptive Function and Benefits of Male-infant Interactions for Adult Male Barbary macaques: Are infants Essential for Affiliative Behaviour between Males? The Composition and context of Interactions and Behaviours involving semi-free ranging Barbary macaques Are Male-infant Interactions Beneficial for Barbary macaque mothers? Handedness for Spontaneous Unimanual Actions in Barbary macaques The Effect of Male-infant Interactions on Female Barbary macaques
2013	Do the Activity Budgets of Adult Barbary macaques differ to the Activity Budgets of Juvenile Barbary macaques? The Effects of Aggression and Group Composition on the Occurrence of Dyads and Triads in Barbary macaques How do Barbary macaques behave following a conflict Event? How do Juvenile Barbary macaques spend their time budget compared to that of an adult macaque? Do Male or Female macaques engage in the greater amount of tactile communication? Do Barbary macaques from different groups understand each other? Implications for reintroduction and conservation programmes How Does Gender Affect who Initiates and receives Aggression in Barbary macaques?
2014	Macaque Social Networks How Does Age of Juvenile Macaques Affect the amount, type and Duration of Contact with Adults? An investigation into Relationship Quality in Captive Barbary macaques
2015	Is Grooming Primarily hygienic in nature, or does it have a Social Function within Semi Free Ranging Barbary macaques Does the sex of participants in a grooming dyad of Barbary macaques affect the length of reciprocal grooming bouts
2016	Comparing Conflict and Reconciliation Behaviour between Aggressor and Victim in Barbary macaques Behaviours of Barbary macaque new-borns when Interacting with Adult males and females
2017	Observing and Recording Animal Behaviour